Fascist Tommy Robinson AKA Stephen Yaxley Lennon is calling for “the UK’s biggest free speech festival” on 13 September in London. The reality is Robinson wants to bring his far right thug supporters onto the streets to spread racist division and Islamophobia. We have halted his attempts to build a fascist street movement in Britain again and again – but the context is even more dangerous now.

The far right are calling demonstrations targeting refugees in their accommodation around the country. In places like Epping they have tried to replicate the racist riots last summer. They are being given confidence by the staggering rise of Reform UK and the shameful attacks on refugees and migrants from Starmer’s government.

But the far right can be stopped. Last summer, mass anti-racist resistance halted the far right riots. We marched in our tens of thousands to oppose Tommy Robinson in October and February. But on Saturday 13 September we have to do it again. Join us.
